

FROM POINTS AROUND.

[REPORTED SPECIALLY FOR THE STAR.]

CYNTHIANA, KY.—There will be a spelling match, open to all comers, Friday night at the Baptist Church. Prize to be a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.

The new citizens are being worked rapidly to completion. The City Fathers intend purchasing a superb fire engine. There is talk of getting up a fire brigade. The town will be honored by the presence of Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, who intends to lecture on her wrongs and troubles in the Holston Hall on November the 18th.

FALMOUTH.—The farmers complain that the Cincinnati hunters not only kill the game in their vicinity but the barnyard fowls and everything that comes in their way, and in consequence they have placed trepanning notices around their farms, making it a flammable offense to enter.

The Circuit Court closed its session in this place yesterday. The Star will be delivered by Mr. Tomlinson, our special agent, at 10 cents per week.

The County Court convenes here next Monday, and a special session of the Criminal will be held the week after.

HAMILTON.—Rufus, the convicted murderer of Herman Schilling, was taken to Columbus yesterday by Sheriff Allen. The Board of Health has decided upon compulsory vaccination as the best means to prevent the further spread of small-pox.

Most of the teachers of the Public Schools left yesterday for Xenia to attend the Central State Teachers' Association.

A four-year-old daughter of a citizen was started to school one day last week for the first time, and when asked by the Superintendent how old she was replied, "Just half-past four."

In the case of the West Hamilton Loan and Building Association vs. John Dillmer and wife, the mortgage was foreclosed, and judgment given for $80.

In the case of Louis Schwenk vs. Geo. Schwenk and Hamilton Loan and Building Association, default was opened up and leave given to answer.

Edley Paul vs. John E. Holland et al., default, was opened, and leave given defendant to file motion to separate and number causes of action.

In the case of Hector Basson against Simon Degginger judgment of $1,035 in favor of plaintiff.

In the case of John J. Davis against Yeakle, Treasurer, the motion of the defendant to reform the plaintiff's amended petition was overruled.

LEXINGTON, KY.—Quite a number of our leading citizens, ladies and gentlemen, left yesterday to attend the reception given last night to Mr. E. Stanley Bowman and his Louisville bride at "Lynchwood," the residence of Col. A. N. Bowman, in Mercer county.

Captain Chas. E. Williams, the fascinating manager of the D-spach book store, on Main street, leaves next week for his former home in Mercer county, whither he has been called by his father's advanced age to take charge of the business department of Daughter's College.

The want of employment for females and young persons of either sex is a serious matter of thought to parents residing in this city of idleness, and steps should be taken by our leading men and women that would lead the unemployed into industry and prevent the commission of crime that is certain to follow the path of idleness.

The next day after the marriage of Mr. Soule Smith, he was retained in a forcible entry case and gained it for his client, Mrs. Mary McCarty. During the progress of the trial he found it necessary to challenge an obstinate witness named Johnson to fight outside the Court-house, for which Judge Stevenson entered a fine of $6 against the literary attorney. At the close of the trial a juryman arose and petitioned the Court to remit the fine, as Mr. Smith was a married man, which appeal his Honor complied with.

The humorist Josh. Billings opens the series of lectures on the 9th of November, before the Lexington Lecture Association.

The Central Kentucky papers at present are a little enlivened with details of dazzling weddings and announcements of others to come. A stranger reading these rural prints would think that every marriage here was a fashionable one. This, with the ostentatious show of gifts at marriages, are among the follies that help to bankrupt the old Kentucky families. A little more sense and less of housewifery will be the first step in the way of reform.

A local paper has echoed our warning to people to beware of the fraudulent promises asked for blue-grass cattle. If these warnings are unheeded many a mortgage will be foreclosed in the next few years.

Among the interesting visitors now in the city are Miss Mollie Fritzen and her companion, Miss Wright, both of Jessamine county. They are the guests of Mrs. John H. Miller.

The marriage of Chas. A. Miller, of Louisville, to Miss Eliza Lloyd, of Lexington, is appointed for next Tuesday a week at the Broadway Christian Church.

An epidemic at this time prevails in our city in the way of matrimonial affairs. Six marriages in the last two days, with plenty of handsome girls left waiting to accept clever fellows desirous of good wives.

KIDLOW, KY.—M. H. Bentley, Esq., has gone South on business. Mr. Robert Shannon and family have moved to the city.

We understand that overtures of annexation have been made by Bromley and Economy since the "liberal" reaction has "hot in." All this greatness must be credited to the indefatigable efforts of "Bob an' me."

We wish to correct a single error in our last report, and that is the vote of Councilman Grace on the Brown saloon license. Mr. Grace voted to grant the license, that speech of his to the contrary notwithstanding. "Oh, Consistent, by, thou art a jewel!"

We are happy to state that Councilman Bentley is recovering from his painful illness.

We are informed that on next Thursday evening our City Council will be called on to grant three saloon licenses for the sale of the ardent. The "Fame" must be up to their eyes in business.

"We want a respectable place where a gentleman can take a social glass, without being interfered with by common clothed persons, and the right of 'low'—the brilliant idea of 'Bob an' me'—was carried into effect corner of Ash and Central streets.

And now the ad intelligence comes through an official source that Adolph is the next poor little boy that's to be left

How in the cold. Cause—Adolph can't work double and wants to know two much about "birds" and such like impertinence.

Our citizens should be on the alert for the thieves and scoundrels that have become so bold of late. We have heard of no less than thirty burglaries being burglarized in this city within the last few nights. Again, we say be careful to bolt well your doors and shutters, and keep your shooting irons close at hand. The vagabonds should be taught a lesson that would make them give our town a wide berth.

Councilman Nixon says there are several places in the city where liquors are sold without a license. This is a severe prod at the efficiency of our worthy Mayor and Marshal. Still it is the business of those officers to investigate, and Mr. Nixon would be a good witness.

The Star of last Saturday with its full and truthful report of the proceedings of the City Council was the observed of all observers. The firm of "Bob an' me," swinging round the circle," was the great topic with our good people for the past week, and they intend to keep it fresh in their memory until the first Saturday in next December. "Dinna ye hear the slogan."

COVINGTON.—Amanda Taylor, an aged and highly esteemed colored woman, died of consumption, yesterday.

Daisy Edwards, a little girl living on Third street, came very near losing her life while hanging on a street car that passed by. She was thrown violently to the ground so as to seriously injure her.

Another leaf fallen from the starry rose. This time it is Dillon, the catcher for the Club, who brutally assaulted one of the drivers of the Covington Street Car Line with "brass knuckles" and a "slung shot." His sudden disappearance from his boarding-house caused some suspicion for a short time last night, but it was soon explained when Deputy Marshal Goodson made his appearance with a warrant, charging Dillon with an assault with intent to kill.

Marriage licenses since our last report: Joseph J. Kitzman and Mary A. Kitzman, Henry Eilers and Mary A. Hertzog, Daniel Wright and Theresa Weaver, Ludwig Klepken and Theresa Fabers, Samuel Neal and Laura Moore, Joseph Gretencourt and Lizzie Hucker, Wm. Harold and Elizabeth Miller, Mathias Kabin and Barbara Sanders.

The thermometer at this end of the Suspension bridge went down twenty degrees at one jump this morning.

The cruelty that is daily inflicted by the stock-drivers through our streets is becoming outrageous, and should be attended to by the S. P. C. A.

Walter Snodgrass, another of the Star Base-ball Club, was last night arrested for beating and abusing him with an assault with intent to kill a car-driver named Biedrose. He was left out on bail of $50, giving as security Col. John Orr.

In his absence this morning Mayor Atchey heard the testimony and fined him $25 and cost. As Snodgrass did not turn up, his security will have to fork over. Alexander Michel, an old vagrant, was sent to the Work-house for ten days. Andrew Stanton, for being drunk, was fined $1 and cost.

NEWPORT.—One prisoner and ten recruits arrived at the Barracks, from Columbus yesterday.

Joseph Giesbauer, while at work in a machine shop in Cincinnati, ran a splinter of steel into his eye, which will probably cause him to lose that member.

Petitions have at different times been handed to Council praying that the road between Newport and Bellevue be put in order. As one place the bank along Taylor creek has caved in so as to cause the street railroad track to be moved at least twelve feet, and within the last few weeks another slide has taken place, and it is not attended to very soon we may look for some horrible accident and a heavy suit for damages.

Wet weather is now coming on and the road is almost impassable.

Out-clews had was filed to its utmost capacity last night, the occasion being the fourth of the series of entertainments given by the Ben Jonson Dramatic Club. "Among the Breakers," a sensational drama in two acts, was the attraction. Just before the rising of the curtain it was announced that an account of sickness in the families of Messrs. Wilson and Buchanan, there would be some change in the programme. Mr. Brooke took the part of Mr. Wilson and Mr. Stine that of Mr. Buchanan. Both carried out their parts in a most excellent manner.

The play throughout was good, and received much credit on our amateur company. The evening's entertainment was concluded with "Tuddy Roe," a laughable farce, in one act. Want of time and space prevents us from giving as full and complete an account as the affair deserves. The entertainments will hereafter take place on Thursday night instead of Friday.

The Post-office corner contains loss letters this morning than for some time past.

No City Court this morning. We had the pleasure of a formal introduction to Col. Nat. M. Cooper this morning.

The McCullough Dramatic Club have announced their intention of paying our city a visit next Thursday evening. We are told that this club is possessed of every element of a first-class dramatic company, as their entertainments at the Grand and at Robinson's Opera-house were very fine. We wish them success.

FLASHES.

A hall storm of unprecedented violence struck Rolla, Mo., yesterday.

E. Whipple, an old man and deaf, was killed at East St. Louis yesterday by a car.

John H. Williams, a prominent colored member of Chillicothe and a member of the Bar, died yesterday.

Mrs. Emma Hadcock was admitted to practice law in the Courts at Des Moines, Iowa, yesterday.

In the suit of C. O. Gott vs. Boston Herald for $50,000 damages libel in editing the Cardiff Giant fraud, the jury rendered a verdict for defendant.

A man named Small, of Portland, Me., saw two children in imminent danger while playing on a railroad track. He went to their rescue and saved them, but was himself killed.

A Kansas City special says a fight took place last Tuesday between the U. S. troops at Fort Hayes and a wandering band of Cheyenne Indians, in which the Indians were the victors. Gen. Carr's command has gone to the rescue.

The United States Circuit Court, yesterday, in the case of Wilmer and others, first mortgage bondholders, against the Atlanta & Richmond Air-line railroad, decided in favor of plaintiffs. The amount is $2,488,000.

A man named Krunnly, living near Athens, Ohio, locked his three children in the house and with his wife started for town. When about half a mile away, and before they could reach it, the house was in ruins and the children burned to death. The children were aged respectively seven, five and three.

The Golden Rule and the Rule of Gold.

A few days ago a gentleman of this city received by mail a check for $300. He deposited it in his bank, and went down into the street, there to be met by a rumor that sent him back in haste. Just twenty-five minutes had elapsed. The teller's little door was shut. "Money was gone," it had been stolen? Was the banker a swindler? No, he had failed.

About the same time a merchant received a large quantity of goods one day near the close of business hours. He made some commonplace excuse for not making immediate payment, and from time to time a clerk the next morning. The first announcement of the morning was that he had failed. He had his goods, but the real owner was without his check. Was the merchant a thief? Ought he to have gone to jail? Not at all. He had merely suspended. He was unable to meet the obligations.

Two young men were recently brought into our city on charges of stealing shoes from a Third Avenue store. They were decent in appearance, and it was believed by some that they had been driven to crime by want. Had they failed, or had they suspended? Or was it because they were unable to meet their obligations? Not at all. They were decent-looking, very common-looking. They were sent to the penitentiary for two months.—N. Y. Tribune.

How to Prevent the Spread of Epizootic and Contagious Diseases Among Cattle.

A correspondent of the London Live-Stock Journal states that three years ago two of his cows showed symptoms of the foot and mouth disease (epizootic apthæ). He had his other three cows at the same time, and he further stated that the same was done in a scientific and skillful manner, and we exonerate Dr. Muscroft from all blame as to the cause of the death of the above.

A Futile Case.

The following well-written letter, addressed to Judge Lindeman, has been placed before us for publication, as showing the difficulties and discouragements that surround a poor woman in the community when struggling to free herself from the infirmities that beset her. The writer is manifestly a woman of more than ordinary intelligence, whose name we suppress from motives of delicacy. But we would hope that this exhibition of the need of some philanthropic aid may not be wasted upon a community who are annually sending thousands of dollars to foreign lands to benefit the heathen:

Judge Lindeman: I have left nothing untold since I was before you last Wednesday to procure a situation, but failed. I am now compelled to make a virtue of necessity, and ask from you a small amount of help. I have no other respectable position in my present unimpaired and shattered state. Trouble and disappointment have done their worst. I am a physical, if not a mental wreck. Two years ago I was sent for a month to that Work-house, and I have never got over the degradation of the surroundings. I am now in the city, in this, to me, hated city, where everything reminds me of what I have been, and what I am now. My one besetting sin, a passion for drink, has left me homeless and friendless. I can't endure it. I have not a morsel of food nor a place to sleep. Excuse me, sir, for taking up your valuable time, but as if my heart will break unless I make some one a sharer. I thank you, Judge Lindeman, for kindness shown in endeavoring to get me into where I wished to go—the infirmary. I certainly think I would have been admitted that day, but for the unkind and unnecessary exposure of the policeman who went with me to the office. He need not have told those gentlemen that I had been arrested for drunkenness; but he did, and they were like the Pope, inflexible, and forthwith refused. Had I got in there I suppose I would have been allowed to have my trunk, and been permitted to put my clothing in order, and to get some food, and I probably had some means of going to St. Louis, where I felt assured I could regain the past and be myself again. Judge, please give my request attention. I slept those two nights at Third-street Station-house.

Very respectfully,

Local News.

The Contested Election.

The Johnson-Buchanan case was up before Judge Cox again this morning and resulted in the dismissal of the injunction and a decision in favor of Johnson. This will in all probability end the matter.

More Fast Mail Trains.

The Baltimore and Ohio road will, on Monday next, put on two fast mail trains between this city and Washington. The morning train leaves Washington at 6:30 A. M. and arrives at Cincinnati at 3:30 P. M., and Chicago at 8:50, and the evening train leaves Washington at 6:15 P. M., and arrives at Cincinnati at 2 P. M., and Chicago at 8:30.

There will be two fast trains starting from Cincinnati, leaving at 5 P. M. and 11 P. M., and arriving at Washington at 8 P. M. and 9:35 P. M. The officials at the Post-office Department claim that among the advantages of the fast trains should be reckoned the general quickening of passenger time on through express trains.

Superintendent Bangs will soon issue a complete schedule of the arrival and departure of all fast mail trains, and the principal cities of the country. The new trains on the Baltimore and Ohio road will both have close New York connections in both directions.

In This Month.

Three nights in succession the police have swooped down upon the copious saloon of Mr. Emil Alberti, 463 Vine street, and the proprietor arrested on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, and "permitting an indecent exposure of person." This morning his case came up in the Police Court, and numerous witnesses examined; among the number are J. A. Reinberger, cigar maker, next door; Mr. Meyers, a photographer in the neighborhood; and Officers Loubardack, Metz, Walke, Sasse, Arnold and Smith, and they all gave in substantiated evidence from piano, flute, violin and horn, and the stamping of the applauding audience is excessive.

This is kept up until midnight, and every night in the week, Sunday included. The performance consists in the singing and dancing on a stage of four or five parties, two of them girls—the girls dressed, or rather undressed, in very short dresses and flesh-colored tights, exposing their limbs to the thigh. It being a free concert, crowds are attracted there, many of them being boys and girls under fifteen. Officer Sasse testifies that from his own certain knowledge there have been nine fights in the last thirty days, five of them in one night in the course of thirty minutes.

Judge Pruden & Son appeared for the defendant, and examined several witnesses, going to show that the house was orderly. The case was argued at some length, Prosecutor Chas. E. Callahan abandoning the charge of "permitting an indecent exposure of person." The judge, after a lengthy review of the case, fined the defendant $10 and costs on two of the charges. His counsel will make a motion for a new trial.

The Police Investigation.

Officer Sugeman, whose case of "oppression in office," in that he unnecessarily beat and abused John Curry, the man he arrested the other night on Vine street, at an investigation held by the Mayor this morning, was suspended from duty for thirty days.

The case of Officer Crumbert, charged by Officer Sugeman with being drunk, and abusing Neave on the morning of the 20th inst., was continued to allow the attendance of Officer Bunker, who, Neave claims, came to him and begged him not to prefer charges against Crumbert, as he was drunk when the offense was committed.

Officer Schmidt, for drunkenness, charge preferred by Lieutenant Wersol, was suspended for 30 days.

End of the Muscroft Case.

The inquest in the alleged malpractice case against Dr. Muscroft, who was charged by John Dunn with being the cause of the death of his child, John Dunn, Jr., by attempting to remove a stone from his bladder, was continued before the Coroner this morning, and resulted in the acquitting of the doctor of charges of malpractice, the jury returning the following verdict:

We the jury find that the deceased, John Dunn, Jr., came to his death from peritonitis, the result of an operation performed by Dr. C. S. Muscroft for stone in the bladder; and we further find that the same was done in a scientific and skillful manner, and we exonerate Dr. Muscroft from all blame as to the cause of the death of the above.
